

SPREAD THE WORD

California Community Colleges Can Apply for New Money to Help their Students Succeed!

The Problem:

Over 70% of students entering California's community colleges are deemed unprepared for college-level work and in need of basic skills courses. Of these, only 1 in 5 complete a degree.

The Solution:

Through the new Basic Skills and Student Outcomes Transformation Program, $60 million have been allocated for community colleges to apply for grants to implement or expand innovations & redesign in the area of basic skills assessment, student services, & instruction.

Who Can Apply:

All California community colleges are eligible to apply.

What They Need to Know:

Workshops are happening now! To assist colleges with selecting strategies for inclusion in their application and to answer questions, the Chancellor's office is sponsoring workshops in the following locations:

February 11

Clovis Community College

February 22

Hilton Oakland Airport

February 16

Hilton OC/Costa Mesa

March 1 or 2

Inland Empire Area

Questions about the application process or program? Contact Eric Nelson at 916-327-2987 or at enelson@cccco.edu.

The Deadline:

Applications must be submitted by March 25, 2016 at 5:00PM.

The Awards:

Selected grant projects will be announced on March 29, 2016.

